HISTORY OF THE GREVILLE ARMS HOTEL

The Greville Arms Hotel, is one of Irelands oldest hotels and dates from 1750. It is one of the few surviving Irish Hotels known to James Joyce and immortalised by him in his writings.

The great Joe Dolan performed his last concert in Mullingar in The Greville Arms Hotel. Niall Horan's Brit Award is on display in the foyer in the hotel.

The world-renowned sculpture of Magdalene, by Antonio Canova 1757-1822 is one of the most famous sculptures in the art world and was carved out of pure carrara marble in 1820, for the British Prime Minister Robert Jenkinson, 1770-1828 and is on display in the foyer of the hotel.

The Greville Museum on the First Floor Hanging on the wall of the stairs is a portrait of Robert Rochford (1661-1727) The museum contains limestone fossils estimated to be 400 million years old. Pieces of meteorites over 10 billion years old and a piece of extremely rare Mars rock.
